Roland G. Ware of Rockland, State Rationing Officer for the Maine Office of Price Administration, has submitted his resignation, effective Jan. 31.

Ware said he planned to resume private business activities as head of the oil distributing firm in Rockland with which he was connected before accepting the O.P.A. office.

O.P.A. officials said no move had been made to select a successor to Ware.

Ware expressed his appreciation for the co-operation he said had been received from his fellow-workers and members of local War Price-Rationing Boards.

Mobile Unit Comes

Will Parallel the Service
Offered By the U. S. O.
Club

Arriving in Rockland this week was USO Mobile Unit 28, which will be under the supervision of Director Fred Hurley of the USO Mobile Service Division. Parallelizing the services offered by the USO clubs located in the largest cities of the country, the club-on-wheels will visit outposts on regular schedule along the northern Maine coast.

Due to the increasing number of units of servicemen on duty on the coast stretching up to Eastport, a survey of the district was made by Mobile Service headquarters and at the request of officers in charge of these units, Unit 28 was assigned to this area.

Ranging from personal shopping for the servicemen up to the presentation of first-run Hollywood sound motion picture... cigarettes, stationery, candy, games and every other type of service will be given to the men stationed at the lonely outposts of the Army, Navy and Coast Guard. Accompanying Director Hurley, who comes here from the Cape Cod area where he supervised Mobile Service during the Summer and Fall maneuvers, is William Almond of New Bedford, Mass., who is the driver and expert technician for the unit.

Through the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and the Community Center, represented by Mrs. Savage and James Flanagan, respectively, Rockland will be the operating base for the unit and the point to which supplies will be shipped for use by the roving club.

Director Hurley wishes to convey through the medium of The Courier-Gazette that anything which the readers think would be of use to the servicemen on the outposts, such as cakes, pies, candy, radios or any other donated item, a note or a call to the Chamber of Commerce, 860, would be sufficient to notify the unit. Due to the conservation of gas it will not be always possible to pick things up, but anything left at the Chamber for the men will be expedited to an outpost as soon as possible.

[EDITORIAL]

The resignation of Leon Henderson, Director of the Office of Price Administration, and the repercussions to which it is giving rise, is ample proof of what the public has long suspected—that affairs were not going too smoothly in Washington. President Roosevelt must be given credit for his endeavor to surround himself with the best talent available, but it's a large country, and different localities entertain different views. They wanted Henderson because he was "tough," but whether he was too tough, or not tough enough, is what may crop out when the new head gets to working. Henderson's act, voluntary or "suggested," follows closely upon the heels of his first appointed resignation. E. Carl Moran could probably tell a highly interesting story if it were felt advisable.

It may be that the recent successes of the Allied Nations are not affecting Axis morale, but the recent conference of Axis leaders seems to have been of the emergency sort, born of the necessity for an altered policy or a new form of strategy. Perhaps we are being shown only the favorable side of the picture, but the war we wince much better in our ears than it has during the past year. With Rommel still on the run in North Africa, with the American forces regaining lost ground in the Southern Pacific, and with the Russians making steady progress in their winter campaign, it is not at all surprising that the Axis forces are considering other devices—devices born of desperation.

Except that we are fortunately not wading through heavy snowdrifts, and experiencing heavy blizzards, this will pass reasonably for an old-fashioned Winter. The sub-zero temperatures, lasting four consecutive days, are the lowest Rockland has known for a long period of years, and in view of the oil shortage could not have been more untimely. Yet any expression of dissatisfaction must be tempered when we recall what those Russian soldiers are contending with, and what our own forces are facing in the fever-laden jungles. Our motorists should be content to go back to the old-fashioned custom of walking, and feel grateful that they can walk in safety.

The censorship setup among the United Nations leaves much to be desired, chiefly because it leaves the peoples of the different nations too much in the dark concerning the public feeling in Allied countries. Of course Russia always has been most secretive. Even British and American military observers reportedly haven't been permitted to see much of the front line fighting as it has been carried on by the Soviets, but have been allowed to see only what the Russians wanted them to see.

Here in the United States our censorship refused dispatches to be sent abroad relative to public sentiment here being critical concerning Britain's India policy. Now it seems, that American correspondents have not been permitted to inform the American populace on British views that differ with those of the United States. And the evil has spread even further. Australian censorship is blocking news dispatches concerning the current struggle over Prime Minister Curtin's proposals in Australia.

Thus, the peoples of the United States, Britain and the British Empire, though their fighting men are solidly lined up on the battlefields of the world, are kept in as much ignorance as possible in regard to each other's public and press opinion wherein that opinion differs.

Certainly Americans ought to know what the British think of our deal with French Admiral Darlan. The British and American people should know what the Australian populace thinks about the manner in which the war against Japan is being waged. The British should understand the majority American opinion on Britain's India policy.

As expressed in a recent issue of the "Christian Century," the censorship prevents full knowledge on such issues, without which there can be no understanding, "and without understanding there can be no lasting union." It's time the English speaking peoples called a halt to such stupid censorship.—Lewiston Journal.

The Camden Chamber Votes To "Cut Out Frills For the Duration"

(by Betty Foxwell)
Following a policy of streamlining the Camden Chamber of Commerce for business and cutting out frills "for the duration" members of this organization attending the quarterly business meeting at the Town Offices Thursday night, voted not to have the annual meeting in the form of a banquet. A committee consisting of Charles E. Lord, Harold Corthell, Gilbert Harmon and Alton French was appointed to plan the program for the annual meeting which will take place sometime in January. It was felt that a banquet should be "out" for the duration, because of difficulties of transportation and members are so busy with war activities.

David Crockett, first vice president, presided at the meeting in the absence of President Hugh Montgomery and announced that Maurice Payson had accepted appointment as auditor to check the books at the close of the business year. He also said that the names of the three judges of calls for the coming elections would be announced shortly.

Dwinal Resigns

Representative Charles F. Dwinal of Camden, 33-year-old lawyer, submitted his resignation to Secretary of State Harold I. Goss Friday, after accepting appointment as a rationing attorney for the Maine Office of Price Administration.

Dwinal, who is married, was elected to the Maine House last September for his fourth two-year term. He graduated from Bates College, and Boston University of Law School.

Dwinal, whose father is Judge Zelma M. Dwinal, said he planned to make his home in Augusta with his family.

Members present at the meeting voted to recommend to the Merchant's Committee that the stores remain open on New Year's Day and Washington's birthday this year. It was felt that the situation had changed since the calendar of holiday closings had been made up, and that with schools mills and shipyards being open on New Year's Day that the stores should not close.

There formerly lived on Crockett's Point, an aged citizen in needy circumstances, but he owned a dog, and, to a caller's surprise half of a large Bible. "Where did you get that half Bible?" the caller wanted to know. "Oh," was the reply, "I found it on one of the dumps, and," he added "you would be surprised to know what an amount of comfort I get from it—and my dog."

The other morning when it was 15 degrees below zero a couple of urchins were seen walking toward the schoolhouse happily lapping ice cream cones. But they did have the good sense to wear stockings.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

Prized highly among the Christmas greetings which have come to The Black Cat are the following lines from a dear friend, Col. Frank P. Sibley, who is widely known to the newspaper clan as "Ed Pointer" of the Boston Globe: Let us not murmur that the world is dark. Nor shudder at the cruelty in the night. Let us not hug our griefs; they cut deep. But soon will be but memories of the pain. Of bringing forth a new and better world. Have faith! The Star of Bethlehem beckons on. And soon shall come the glory of the dawn. Of Christmas such as we have never known. Christmas, 1942. Frank P. Sibley

Small retail concerns which do a business of less than $20,000 a year, may find some consolation in the fact that 75 percent of the retail concerns in the United States are in the same box.

A Rockland man, not now living, was very strong on his religion and was holding forth one night when somebody turned his horse loose and sent the animal scampering down the road. The man was reading from the Bible when a boy rushed into the chapel and exclaimed excitedly, "Mister, your horse has run away." Scarcely taking his eyes from the Bible the man shouted "Praise the Lord!" He then went out, caught the horse and harnessed him back into the wagon. Order had scarcely been restored when the mischievous boys repeated their prank, and one of them again rushed into the chapel and shouted: "Mister your horse has run away again!" "To hell with the horse!" exclaimed the man of religion, and he kept right on reciting from the Scriptures.

"Where did you get that half Bible?" the caller wanted to know. YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

THE EARTH HAS GROWN OLD

The earth has grown old with its burden of care. But at Christmas it always is young; The heart of the jewel burns lustrous and fair. And its soul full of music breaks forth on the air. When the song of the angels is sung. It is coming, old earth, it is coming tonight! On the snowflakes that cover thy sod. The feet of the Christ-Child fall gentle and white. And the voice of the Christ-Child tells out with delight. That mankind are the children of God.

The feet of the humblest may walk in the field. Where the feet of the holiest have trod. This, this is the marvel to mortals revealed. When the silver trumpets of Christmas have pealed. That mankind are the children of God.

Book Review

Ludwig Beethoven, and the Charming Tower Belk. Author Opal Wheeler. With illustrations by Mary Greenwalt. Published by E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., New York.

Charming to the eyes, satisfying to the heart and aesthetic musical mind, is this altogether lovely compilation in story of one of the greatest masters in all history in the skilled art of music. And this story is artistically and truly interesting for boys and girls as well as their seniors.

From four years of age his musical training was watched by intelligent parents. The author has captured the superb quality of spiritual greatness that developed in the soul of boy and man. Charming bells drew his attention and out of these came to his fingers and mind lovely melodies.

In this history of boy and man and his lasting achievements, that is so artistically printed bound and handled with studied care, we find a book to inspire one with deep admiration and love, one wishes to go to the piano and play out to satisfy the mind the lovely musical scores that are included in this book. They weave a magic spell in one's heart, and too, the illustrations do their fine part in opening eyes to the creator of great symphonies and glorious music that will live out time.

No better gift for any child who loves music and with the irresistible illustrations to hold the mind to possibilities for future accomplishments.

A rare and lovely book.

Canvassing Union

Salvation Army's Annual Appeal Being Made By "The Durable Dane"

At the request of Chairman John L. Howard, of The Salvation Army annual appeal for funds, which is now in progress, Niels T. Abildgaard has commenced systematic solicitation of funds in Union and District.

Abildgaard, affectionately known in Salvation Army circles as the "Durable Dane" because of his consistency in all assignments given to him, was born in Denmark. His career, prior to becoming a Salvation Army representative, reads like a page of Heratid Alger. He sailed the Seven Seas, was saved from death by a freak of good fortune while crossing Death's Valley on foot and worked his way through every State in the Union as an entertainer at benefits and parties. Abildgaard joined The Salvation Army in 1934, is married and has two children.

The citizens who have not made their returns by mail, to the treasurer, John H. Williams, are urged to request to do so in order that time and expenses may be saved and thereby the greater good be accomplished by the money saved.

Navy Takes a Fall Out of the Army In a One-Sided Game

The Navy shot down the Army Basketeers Tuesday night in a lopsided game. The Navy team, with new game suits of blue and gold, started the opening quarter far ahead of the Army cagers. The initial quarter ended with Navy in front 14 to 6.

At the half way mark the Army was still trailing, but they had held the Navy to only one basket. The score at half-time was 16 to 9.

The fighting Army five from Camden—Company C, 181st Infantry, started a rally, but it fell short as the Navy also started again, with a barrage of baskets. As the final whistle sounded the Navy had piled up 30 points, to the Army's 19.

Bottigli, giant center for Navy, starred with a total of 19 points. Delafield, midget forward for Army took the spotlight as he stole the ball from the Navy team all through the game. The spectacle was very colorful as both teams had new jerseys.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Dec. 22—Christmas play, "The Grumpy Santa Claus" by Brownie Girl Scouts at Community Building.
Dec. 23—Christmas.
Dec. 29—Special election for Alderman in Ward 5.

The Weather

Winter began this morning, but we have a shrewd suspicion that the critter had been hanging around for at least four days, because of the sub-zero temperatures which have prevailed. Warden Welch of the State Prison informs me that he was forced into his Aroostook underwear, and if you ever got mixed up with Aroostook's winter weather you know what that means. The sun remains with us two minutes longer today, but the kids will continue to go to school in the dark for at least another fortnight, as the sun continues to rise later until Jan. 5. Only two more days in which to buy diamond rings, radios and other Christmas trifles.

The local Western Union office discontinued issuing American Express money orders Monday.

HE'S NO NATURE FAKER

But A. Jay See Can Tell Some Surprising Stories Of the Outdoors

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Yes, I remember the "Colonel" who is now asking for a little more knowledge of woodcraft so as to subject me to a little more of his superior cryptesthesia on this subject. This 75-cent word I have just used I took from Roget's Thesaurus which is very good authority. Probably the "Colonel" is very well acquainted with the Thesaurus as well as other animals.

A few years ago he made a lot of criticism of my rifle which is still a standard brand, but after comparing it with others he got one just like it. Now just try to separate him from it. The Colonel is a comparatively young man, and has not seen it all yet. Being a native of the general region of Milo and Brownville he no doubt knows more about big game hunting than I, but perhaps in my semi-city life I may have seen things in nature that he may not.

Up to the time I was 30 years old when the "Colonel" was probably not visible at all I traveled with a bunch of nature lovers, among whom were some of the best shots of Knox County. Men and boys like Knott Perry, Bill Lufkin, Gene Kaler, Elden and John Morton, Wilbur Young, Walter Weeks, Bill Davis Lowell Bowley and since those days with many of the younger generation as Daniel Bowley, Peary Merrifield and many others. I never knew much about the hunting powers of the "Colonel." He claimed when I first knew him to be a great trout fisherman, but a sad experience of his dodging two wardens while he was fishing a closed brook took much of his nerve. Now he seems to be regaining it. I will relate a few actual experiences of my own, each and everyone of which may and can be proved by living witnesses.

I have on several occasions picked up alive, raccoons weighing from 12 to 21 pounds each and either killed or bagged them while barreled, one day getting four, all handled this way. This was in the Gustav Laine pasture on the east side of Mt. Pleasant. Taken out in bare hands from holes in the ledges. I have also picked them off trees the same way. Bill Davis, game warden, has seen me handle some in this way. Also Harvey Lunden, Ralph Sayward, Kenneth Brewster and others.

"Bill" Davis can and does often do the trick.

Were we ever bitten by the brutes?

Yes, but not always.

I have grabbed a full grown hen-hawk engaged in killing half-grown pullets, the hawk had already killed four in my bare hands and slaughtered him with a club.

In company with other Rockland boys I have caught bare-handed with no hook, gaff or artificial aid, dozens of 'mountain trout' weighing up to 3½ pounds or more, each, working entirely by feeling under banks of a brook.

Ash Albert Cables, Knott Perry, Ira Larabee or many other Rockland boys of the period, in the late 'Nineties.' Ask Earl Chaples about the time he and I and another walked from Rockland to Grassy Pond at South Hope, fished there through the ice and walked home arriving there at 1.30 for a late dinner with 100 pickered.

On three occasions I have witnessed the apparently impossible achievement of a snake swallowing a frog. First time on shore of Knight's Pond Northport; second at shore of our own Chickawaukie Lake, and last time near my home at Mt. Pleasant. A gruesome spectacle. Twice I have found evidence of where a pickered had been choked to death by a small perch-like fish, getting his head out through the gills of the pickered instead of down the pickered's throat as "Eox" intended.

In a space of less than 50 square rods I have found where five partidges had been nipped under crust.

No growing animal or plant can flourish without light and air; neither can children.

A Christmas concert will be held in the Church Thursday night by the Sunday School.

Burgess Blake and daughter Mary were at home from Augusta for the week-end.

O. W. Carroll of Rockville has bought the stock of J. B. Blake.

of snow and had been rescued (?) by fox or foxes. At present there are two or more fox tracks to every rabbit track. Foxes are plentiful; Rabbits "skurke."

I have known Bill Davis to kill two rabbits with one shot, 25 or more years ago. And Bill, while in company with me, fired two shots at a flying partridge with a single shotgun, missed the first shot, reloading and got the bird on a long second shot. Some gun handling! In those days Bill and I hunted much together. Seldom fired at a rabbit in any way unless the rabbit was at full speed in high gear as they generally were ahead of my best dogs or dogs like Bill Lufkin's "Mollie" or that kingpin of them all, John Morton's "Dash" and in those days Bill and I could get them in the head and foreshoulders, and Bill can to this day. And if my old right eye didn't spavined I still could. Earl Chaples asked me the other day if I could still pick them out of the air, I had to tell him "no."

Well, "Colonel" I have written just a grain of the nature stories I could tell without going into the professional liar class.

Did you ever see a brook trout with a snake in his throat and protruding from his mouth? I have twice. For proof ask Knott Perry at Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, New York, or Ernest M. Buker of Whitesville, Mass. Each saw a different occasion of it while in company with me.

It could give many more almost unbelievable sketches of true happenings in nature.

All of us hunters of the past and present generations have made some wonderful hard shots and some misses on dead easy set-ups.

Bill Davis, for instance, seldom missed a rabbit running, with a single shot-gun, but give him a pump or automatic gun and he generally fired three or four test shots just as fast as the gun could be handled and then a pause, very slight pause, then bang! and bunny was—and still is—dead.

RECALLING LIFE'S CHAPTERS

Being In the Nature Of a Biography of Commander G. H. Reed, D. C., U. S. N.,
Written By Himself

(Chapter XIII)

In the eight months I was aboard that ship we worked hard. We maneuvered, in company with 29 other battleships, over the southern drill grounds off the Virginia capes; engaged in torpedo defense practice in the calm waters of Tangier Sound; drilled our gun crews both night and day; had our long range and short range battle practice and labored incessantly whipping into shape and hardness drafts of recruits we received on board every few days from the shore training stations at Newport, Norfolk and Great Lakes.

Crowded together as we were with 1700 officers and men on board a ship designed to accommodate 1000, we worked and ate and slept almost under each other's feet in the confusion of preparations for a war already underway. Every few days we shipped our finished gun crews off to duty in the newly organized convoy system; we weeded out the unadaptable, undesirable men; rated up the best of them to positions of minor responsibility; cut red tape and duplication of effort to the bone, and through it all tried to instill the loyalty and pride, which comes from duty well done, into the minds and hearts of our crew.

When that kind of a routine goes on and on for months on end and the days pile up in a long parade of earnest effort toward a common goal, it is inevitable that shipmates get to know each other well. It is inevitable also that every body absorbs some knowledge of the other fellow's job. So it was for me on that first cruise of mine. We sat around in the ward room nights and compared notes on the troubles of the day. We growled among ourselves because we were not in the thick of things over there in the North Sea. We ate prodigious amounts of meat and potatoes and canned pears and if we could have found a head of lettuce, we would have kissed it. We

Red Cross Women

Resolutions Adopted At a Meeting Held Under Difficulties

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

A meeting of Knox County women Red Cross workers was held in the Community Building Saturday afternoon, Dec. 19. Attendance was small, because of extremely cold weather and sudden stoppage of gasoline sales. However, the following were present: Mrs. Earle Perry, Mrs. W. S. Cameron, Mrs. E. K. Leighton, Mrs. H. C. Cowan, Mrs. S. Eugene Lamb, Mrs. Roland Ware, Mrs. Arthur Lamb, Mrs. E. Stewart Orbelton and Mrs. Conover Fitch, Jr.

The chairman made an informal report of the progress of women's Red Cross work during the year 1942, including Volunteer Special Services, Motor Corps, Army Surgical Dressings, Garment Production, Volunteer Nurses Aides, Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, instruction in Nutrition and Canteen work, and Home Service.

An encouraging report could be made on the Knox County Red Cross Blood Donors Committee, of which Mrs. Arthur MacDonald of Thomaston is chairman. About 1500 unit treatments of blood plasma are on hand in the Central Maine General Hospital, Lewiston. Of this amount, Knox County has donated not far from 500 units. A special refrigerator has been purchased and installed in the Knox County Hospital, and 90 unit treatments are stored there. It is comforting to know that plasma for transfusions is instantly available. The necessity was surely shown in the Boston night club disaster.

Resolutions were adopted by the meeting, to the following effect: That everything possible ought to be done to spread teaching of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick among less privileged families, and that in this connection Mrs. Cowan's Neighborhood Group plan would be highly valuable.

That a more fully organized Volunteer Nurses Aide Committee ought to be recruited. That when the annual Roll Call and War Fund Drive begins on March 1, the efforts of all should be exerted toward goals double those of 1942, namely 8,000 members and $25,000.

Needed At Once

Members Asked To Furnish Bandages At Camden Red Cross Rooms

A growing casualty list, intensified fighting, stiffened resistance on many fronts, means that the needs of the Red Cross for bandages for the U. S. Fighting Forces has increased tremendously.

Workers are urgently needed at the Camden Red Cross workrooms, where 10,000 bandages must be completed for the December quota alone. All dressings now being made in Camden are for our own forces.

Club women, women in civilian defense, all who can spare a few hours each week must help. The number of workers must be doubled in order to meet the quota.

The work rooms are now in the sewing room, above the Town Offices, on Washington street. New comers will be directed at the Town offices.

The workroom is open on the following evenings from 7 to 9: Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; and from 1 to 4 on Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Loyal Citizens Providing the Furniture For Its Recreation Center

Headed by the Recreational Council of the Citizens Service Corps, a drive to supply the recreational needs of the U. S. Army Detachment at Camp Camden was inaugurated last week. While some furnishings have already been donated by townspeople, many more items are needed to make pleasant rooms for the soldiers.

Mainly the plan, as announced by Gilbert Laite, chairman of the committee, is to furnish and equip the main recreation hall on the reservation. The hall so far contains only a few essential items, many of which have long been out of use through poor condition. Many pieces are needed. Furniture in need of repair will be upholstered, repainted and further retouched at the Maine State Prison.

New items, items of above normal value, may be tagged and returned to the owners when the need is no longer felt. The recreation center is spacious, and can accommodate a large number of items. Important among these are couches, easy chairs, large rugs, throw-rugs, reading lamps, writing tables, straight chairs, and furniture of every description.

Percy Keller, town manager, has arranged for transportation of the items to the camp. Anyone having anything to contribute is urged to call him, at tel. 610, or Chairman Gilbert Laite, tel. 8223, immediately, so the recreation rooms may be furnished for Christmas.

will be held Wednesday at 7 o'clock instead of Thursday.

Hospital Notes: Mrs. Diana Pitts of Rockport is a surgical patient; Horatio Stevens is a medical patient; Mrs. George Underhill, Mrs. Ivan Young and child, and Mr. Dumton have returned home.

It was a remarkable testimonial to the serious interest of the women of Massachusetts in gaining a better understanding of all the implications of the present war, the establishment of a peace and good will that will continue through the ages, and the part that they can perform in achieving this goal, that such an enormous number so devotedly attended every session. The deceased was born on Burricane Island, May 5, 1883, daughter of Richard Rowling and Lucy F. Tighe; and made her home there until the death of her husband, 16 years ago, when she moved to Rockland. At the time of her death she was employed at the J. B. Pearson Factory in Thomaston.

FROM NORTH HAVEN TO SUEZ

Samuel Beverage Gives Delightful Account Of His Voyage To the Orient

Somewhere in the Middle East, Oct. 23

Hello Folks:—

As we lay sleeping in our barracks back there in the States, that fateful night, of some months ago, little did we dream that before daylight we would be enroute for foreign service, yet when the sun rose that morning we were well on our way to catch the boat for "we knew not where" and within a few days found ourselves well at sea on His Majesty's Transport Pasteur. We had dodged several subs inshore, but due to the tremendous speed of the ship the danger from torpedoing was small.

The Pasteur was built by the French and was launched in 1939 for the Le Havre-Rio-Buenos Aires run. She is the fifth or sixth largest ship in the world, and as converted, after having been taken over by the British, makes an ideal troop transport.

It is amazing to see all the "in-mards" of a great ocean liner such as this, and for most of us this was our first extensive sea voyage. (Yours truly had never sailed more than 150 miles in a stretch by ship before).

When we say good-bye to land, and have no idea how long before we shall see shore again or what shore it will be gives one an undefinable feeling which is only dispelled when land does once more appear, foreign tho' it may be, and after that it is easy to bid farewell to land and sail on and on once more. Such was this, our voyage to foreign service.

By day we do nothing but eat, drill for lifeboats, and sit by the rail and watch the flying fish and the water. Some nap in the sun, while others play cards or just "chew the fat" generally.

We see at least one movie a week in the ship's lounge, and read books in the ship's library room. At night some sleep on deck, read, play cards, listen to the nightly "canned music" concerts below decks, and then to bed (hammocks or mat) at "lights out." Complete blackout is observed from a half hour before sunset to a half hour after daybreak, and anyone who tries to sneak a smoke on deck between these periods gets promptly slapped in the "brig."

All those on board when the equator was crossed became members in good standing of King Neptune's Court and each was given a certificate affirming the same.

The flying fish we mentioned above are real, and not fictitious as some may think. They usually are about the size of a snail or herring and have two sets of wings, (fore and aft) in place of ordinary fins. They pop out of the water and fly for a hundred feet or so, just above the surface and then fall back into the waves when exhausted. The largest one we saw was about 10 inches long—but that was an exception—he had good wing spread and looked like "Buck Rogers rocket ships of the future."

Below the equator we lost our sense of direction both by day and night, for the sun is now north of us at mid-day instead of south, and rose in the northeast, setting in the northwest, while the north star, big dipper, and Cassiopea could not be seen at all for here the Southern Cross takes their place. The Southern Cross looks like a baseball diamond on end, and all the "bases" are composed of very bright stars.

There have been many times that yours truly has slept outdoors and under the stars on land, but nothing can compare with sleeping on the deck of a ship with the rigging outlined across the sky, and the stars guiding our course. We sleep soundly and partake eagerly of our "spartan" meals, and then a trip to the ship's canteen for dessert. Thus it goes for days on end, living army style just as on shore, guard details, K. P., room and latrine orderlies, calisthenics, drills, games, pay day, shots in the arm, sick call, in fact just a little of everything G. I. including shore leave and eating from mess kits.

We sail through smooth, rough and indifferent seas, and find out

At The High School

By The Pupils

The High School Victory Corps took an added interest this week with the announcement that the daily activity period would be lengthened to 40 minutes to enable those who are enrolled in the group to devote more time to Victory Corps activities.

Five basic services, embracing Air, Land, Sea, Production, and Community divisions, are offered to the enrollee. In addition, general membership in the Corps is offered to all students who are taking the physical fitness program which includes at least one period of gym work each week.

The Land Service Division has been set up especially for those juniors and seniors who expect soon to enter the armed services. Already fifty or more boys are taking military drill under the supervision of competent military personnel.

A physical fitness program has been designed for the purpose of promoting the four following objectives as being basic in the training of a good citizen or, if need be, a good soldier:

1. Health protection.
2. Physical activity programs.
3. Food nutrition.
4. Emotional stability through proper guidance.

The Sea Service division has the same set up as the Land division, except that navigation is one of the required studies.

The Air division has as its basic study, a course in pre-flight aerodynamics which has been underway since the first of the school year.

The Production service, as its name implies, offers opportunities in the field of agriculture or related industry. This service will probably be expanded and become increasingly important as the planting and harvesting seasons arrive.

To be eligible for membership in the Community service division, a student must be pursuing a course in preparation for community or other service occupations, plus an active and continued participation in some extra curricular or service activities directly connected with the war effort. Suggested activities along this line are:

1. Plane spotting service.
2. Aircraft Warning Center.
3. Buying and selling of war bonds.
4. Messenger service.
5. Red Cross work.

Beginning with the second semester, a pre-induction training program for critical occupations will be offered to qualified students. This includes fundamentals in radio, electricity, automotive mechanics, and like subjects. Emblems for each of the five services have been ordered, together with a january, overseas-type hat which bears the emblem of the wearer's particular service. Mr. Bowden is in charge of this corps.

Eleanor Young of the Senior shorthand class and Milton Wooster lune's domain and welcomed it again in the Indian Ocean. We had hoped to get a look at a water-pout but none appeared. Around the Cape of Good Hope we had experienced heavy seas, lots of spray and unsteady decks. We had dodged subs, zig zagging, and running without lights, and no flags, no land, no ships, nothing but air, sea and sky for seemingly endless weeks. There were surprisingly few seafish fellows and in all it was quite a healthy bunch. There were fellows from every corner of the States.

We all had learned a lot of interesting things about ships. We soon found out that "Port" was left, and "Starboard" was right. "On deck" was upstairs, "Aft" was the back end of the ship, "Forward" was the front end, "Below" was down stairs, "Aloft" was up on the top and "Galley" was where the "grub" came from. And many other such terms.

We got to know our ship as we would know the city block near our home, or the main street of our town. It is our home for a long time. It seems odd when once again we step on land, and some find it hard to walk straight at first. Some fun!

Suez is an ancient and dirty city, but it has a few interesting points, such as the native market and shop district. It is truly a great education for those who are interested to walk about and see the natives living, trading and dressing as they have for countless generations.

Intermingled with the ancient scenes are many modern day machines, and so often we see some ultra modern vehicle alongside a mule with saddle blankets used for transporting goods to market. Such a comparison.

Samuel H. Beverage

of the office practice class, have assisted Principal Blaisdell in the office this week.

In a message from Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, all pupils are asked to take out the pennies and nickels from their piggy banks, or some other kind of little banks at home, and put them back in circulation. The pennies are made of copper, zinc and tin which are needed so much by the soldiers, sailors and aviators. Last year 4,600 tons of copper alone were consumed in making pennies. If each family would return 30 pennies to the channels of trade, they would equal fourteen hundred million pennies so sorely needed for war purposes. Congress has authorized a change to be made in the content of the new one-cent piece.

The length of the morning class periods will be shortened to allow more time for the activity period, when school opens Jan. 4, according to an announcement made by Principal Blaisdell. This is necessitated by the new pre-induction courses to be offered.

The annual faculty Christmas party was held Monday night in Room 6 with Senior and Junior High teachers and their husbands attending. The room was attractively arranged with tables set up for several kinds of games, including Sixty-three, auction, Chinese checkers, and Trippoli. Mr. Bowden and Mr. Smith were co-Santa Claus this year, reading choice verses which accompanied the gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Strickland, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Brown and Miss Rackley. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blaisdell, Mr. and Mrs. Alston Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bowden, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams, Lewis Sturtevant, Miss Ida Hughes, Miss Elizabeth Rackley, Miss Marion Ludwick, Miss Marguerite deRoche, Miss Jeanette Stahl, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keady, Miss Relief Nichols, Mrs. Margaret Dow, Mrs. Mary Garrett, Miss Joyce Johnson,

Mrs. Ruth Sanborn and Mrs. Ruth Spear.

The prizes which were given for the sale of tickets in "June Mad" were presented at the Junior and Senior High Assemblies this week. The winners were: Senior High, first prize, $1.50 in War stamps; Bertha Coombs; second prize, $1.00 in War stamps, Eleanor Tracy; Junior High, first prize, $.75 in War stamps, Margaret Dormant; second prize, $.75 in War stamps, tie between Ralph Stone and Stanley Walsh. Bertha Coombs, being captain of the Senior's home room which sold more than any of the other rooms, received in addition to $1.50 in War stamps, a free ticket to the play.

At the annual Christmas Senior High Assembly, this afternoon, this program, directed by Mrs. Sanborn, was given: Bible reading, Douglas Perry; carol singing by girls; carol singing by boys; remarks, Dr. Lowe; accordion solo, Barbara Allen; dance, Ristaino sisters.

SIMON H. HALL
Simon H. Hall, 93, retired Rockland grocery merchant, died Thursday night. He was born in Rockland, son of Isaac T. and Sarah Hahn Hall.

At an early age he made several voyages with Capt. Thomas Dermot, (father of Maxine Elliott) who married Adelaide Hall, a sister. He was the last member of a large family. At one time he was associated with his brother, J. Fred Hall, in the carriage business. Later, with his family, he went to Edgar, Neb. where he was in business. He returned to Maine and conducted a market on Linerock street.

Again returning West he was located in Stratton, Neb. where he was in the real estate business for a few years. Then he came back to Maine and engaged in the grocery business on Park street, which later was the firm of Hall & Melvin. Following the untimely death of his son, Austin L. Hall, he retired from active business.

For several years after the death of his wife, Clara Perkins Hall he spent the winter months in Florida. He is survived by a grandson, Austin Haraden Hall of Portland, and several nephews and nieces.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church and of Aurora Lodge, F.A.M., Rockland.

Services were in Burpee Funeral Home Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. Charles MacDonald officiating. Burials were James E. Stevens, Dr. J. A. Richan, George T. Stewart and Capt. Harry Johnson. Interment was in Achorn cemetery.

It takes two railroad flat cars to carry the 65-foot barrel of a 16-inch battleship gun.
